"Thus far." said Maj. Martin after landing. "We have had the best of luck. Our planes apparently are fit. We have taken no chances and we shall take none chances and we shall take none unnecessarily. We are not out for speed records. Naval Committee Declares Project Inadvisable at Present

Opponents Argued That Would Only Duplicate Mare Island Yard

(BT A. P. NIGHT WIRE) WASHINGTON, March 20. Plans of the Navy Department for an operating base at Alameda, Cal., were set back today when the House Naval Committee by a vote of six to thirteen, rejected the project as inadvisable at present because of the existing facilities at Mare Island Navy Yard.

Development of the proposed base over a twenty-year period at base over a twenty-year period at a cost of $20,000,000 was indorsed by high naval officials including Assistant Secretary Roosevelt, who contended it was necessary for Pacific defense. Opponents declared further development in the San Francisco Bay area should be at the Mare Island yard.

It was indicated that advocates might attempt to renew the fight in the Senate when the naval omnibus bill in which the Alameda project is incorporated, comes up.
The site was offered to the Navy by Alameda for an operating base. The department's plan for development contemplated expenditure of $20,000,000 over twenty years. The committee's action was taken on the ground that this expenditure was inadvisable because of the existing facilities at Mare Island.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS) PARIS, March 20.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichbank, is not yet prepared to hand special point in connection with in his written opinion on one special point in connection with the proposed German bank of issue on which the expert subcommittee on banking requested information. He was heard on the subject this afternoon and will appear before the experts soon again, when it is believed he will be ready to accede to the committee's request. It generally is surmised that Dr. Schacht's failure to respond in writing is because he wanted to communicate with the German government.

This delay is holding up that part of the experts' report dealing with the issue bank, but the committee is going ahead with the rest of it. The text so far as drawn up by the drafting committee, was considered in a full meeting of the first committee this afternoon. The first committee, under the chairmanship of Charles G. Dawes, and the second committee, headed by Reginald McKenna, held their first joint session tonight to discuss the sections of their respective reports which have a certain interdependence. The first committee will continue to discuss the text of the report tomorrow.

Simmons Turns to Outside Experts for Facts

(BT A. P. NIGHT WINE)
WASHINGTON, March 20.—In WASHINGTON, March 20.—Interest in the Senate Finance Committee's consideration of the revenue bill turned again today to the approaching fight on income tax rates after the committee had agreed to some further treasury provision on technical and administrative details in the bill approved by the House.

Democrats drew up some prospective rates today and submitted them to fiscal experts to determine their probable revenue yield, while Republicans apparently continued to stand by the Mellon rates, displaced by the House for the Longworth compromise.

Meanwhile, attention was centered on estimates as to the probable amount of revenue to be required by the government next year.

A report by Undersecretary quired by the government next year.

A report by Undersecretary Winston of the treasury showed that the treasury in its estimates as to probable revenue which would be collected next year, and on which it figured the surplus available for tax reduction, had used the lower figures of two different estimates.

The highest estimates were prepared by Joseph McCoy, government actuary, the report showed. The accepted estimates were submitted by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

CONFIRMATION SEEN

The table showed that the estimates of Mr. McCoy and those of the Internal Revenue Bureau had conformed in past years.

Discussion of the report with Mr. Winston was planned by the committee for a later date.

The revenue bill passed by the House, it was estimated by the treasury, would result in a loss of $446,000,000 in the fiscal year 1925.

House, it was estimated by the treasury, would result in a loss of $444,000,000 an the fineal year 1925.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the House Ways and Means Committee, who previously had asked the treasury for tax rate estimates, declared to-day that the report submitted to the Senate committee "shows conclusively the Secretary of the Treasury has several sets of estimates and uses those which will best suit his argument."

"These figures show," Mr. Garner continued, "that if the estimates, had been used, the actual probable surplus in the fiscal year 1925 would be $561,000,000 instead of $355,000,000. If Mr. Mellon had used the maximum estimates submitted to him. Mr. McCory, for tax, beat the Bebeys.

In Oklahoma, snowfall in some places broke all records, Muskogee reporting sixteen inches with the flakes still tumbling. In spite of her five-score years Mrs. Goodrich has an active mind and reads widely on topics of the day. Tunnels to Cost $60,000,000 Now Being Bored to Place Historic District Nearer Broadway

> BY RAYMOND G. CARROLD [EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH] [Copyright, 1924, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, March 20 .- Staten Island, officially known as Richmond Borough, in the greater city of New York, is dreaming dreams of future greatness and the end of its physical isolation from Broadway and Fifth avenue. In itself a city with a population of more than 130,000, the equal in inhabitants of Springfield, Mass., Staten Island pins its hopes upon the two tunnels now being constructed under the Narrows which will-well, that is where the dreaming commences.

will—well, that is where the dreaming commences.

It will take five years to finish the tunnels, at an estimated cost of $60,000,000. One shaft is under way at Fourth avenue and Sixty-ninth street in Brooklyn and the other is steadily dropping into Staten Island soll at Manor Road and the West New Brighton Road, near St. George.

At Stapleton, on the last shore of the island, are eleven handsome 1000-foot piers, which cost the city $30,000,000.

Next consider the steam railroads of the island.

Next consider the steam railroads of the island, which are owned by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. One travels the east shore south to South Beach, another follows the course of the island around to Tottenville and the third runs along the north shore to the ferry for New Jersey. All are to be electrified.

VISION IS EXPLAINED CLAREMONT, March 20.—Herbert Hooney, Pomona College baseball manager, announced yesterday that all arrangements had been concluded with the Seattle manager, and that the crack Sagethen nine would tangle with the Indian, at the Santa Fe Park diamond in San Bernardino next Saturday afternoon.

The contest is taking on the proportions of a mighty fast game of ball and Schott plans to give his protegees the workout of their lives. Undoubtedly the Seattle aggregation will walk off with an easy victory, but the Pemona apple tossers are desirous of giving the Coast League outfit a run for its money.

Now for the vision: The building of a railroad terminal at Arlington, Staten Island, across from Elizabeth, N. J., where through trains from the West will deliver and take passengers.

The electrified transit system of the island running its new steel cars through the tunnel to Brooklyn, there entering the Pourth avenue subway and, by arrangement with the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, continuing over or under the East River to Manhattan and up Broadway to the center of the hotel and theater district.

TRACKLESS TROLLEYS

Today Staten Island is distant twenty minutes from the Battery by the municipal ferries to St. George. The distribution over the island is made from St. George—by the steam railroads, surface car lines, bus routes and twenty miles of trackless trolleys. Staten Island, lying at the entrance to New York Harbor, has an area of fifty-seven square miles, is fourteen miles long and seven miles across at its widest point and has thirteen miles of ocean frontage, upon which are four beaches—Midland, South, Huguenot and New Dorp, it contains some farms, but it is building at the rate of between 4000 and 5000 new dwellings a year.

Todt Hill, whose summit of 417 feet above sea level is said to be the highest point on the Atlantic Coast from Maine to Florida, carries the grounds of the Country Club, adjoining Dongan Hills, a favorite residential section, which in the latter portion of the seventeenth century was the estate of Thomas Dongan, the English Governor of New York, fater the Earl of Limerick.

On Forest avenue is the house where Gen. Santa Anna, the Maxican general, was in hiding, and from which he was smuggled in a plane-box to a ship, only to be caught on the high seas en route to Vera Cruz.

On Travers avenue, in New Springville, is the house built by John Crocheron, the Huguenot, who escaped execution in France by concealing himself in a hogshead on board a vessel bound for America.

At the foot of the hill across the Old Mill Road in Richmond, on the site of the present schoolhouse, was the famous whippingpost and gallows of Revolutionary days.

Then there is the Billip house in Tottenville, the Britton-Cuttberly house in New Dorp, the Bratus Wiman house in Great Kills and the Perrine house at Dongan Hills.

"The Snuggery" farmhouse at New Dorp is where Ralph Waldo Emerson was a frequent visitor and wrote some of his, poems and where Thoreau lived as a tutor. In Tompkins avenue, Stapleton, is now adorned with a modern coat of stucco.

SAN DIEGO, March 20,old rivals for golf honors will meet tomorrow on the links of the San Diego Country Club for the women's championship of Southern California, Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago, national champion, and Miss Marion Hollins of New York, who formerly held the national title, having reached the final round of the tournament.

tie, having reached the final round of the tournament.

Miss Cummings defeated Miss Doreen Kavanagh, the sole surviving Californian, 2 and 1 in the semifinals today, while Miss Hellins conquered Mrs. H. G. Hutchings of Winnipeg, 6 and 4. Today's matches were played for the most part in a cold rain driven horizontally across the links by a breeze from the ocean, but in spite of this handicap the four semifinalists played good golf, Miss Hollins playing particularly well.

Miss Hollins went out in 29, having Mrs. Hutchings 5 down at the turn, while Miss Kavanagh had a 41 for her first nine and Miss Cummings a 42. The battle Miss Kavanash, State champion, gave Miss Cummings will not soon be forgotten either by the national title-holder or by the chilly gallery which surged about the course behind the players. Miss Cummings was forced to her most brilliant game in order to win, and the match was far from won until she sank a three-root putt for a birdie chree on the seventeenth green. At no stage of the match before the finals green did more than one hole separate the opponents.

The schedule of play for the Knights of Columbus League as announced last night by Walter A. Paul is as follows: Long Beach at Gendale, 12:30 o'clock; Hollywood at Manchester Heights, 2:30 o'clock, and Alhambra vs. Los Angeles at Loyela College, 3 o'clock. As the Casey clubs are all evenly matched, three hard-fought games are expected to take place in this week's round of play.

(BT A. P. NIGHT WIRE)
WASHINGTON, March 36.-Republican members of the Senate inance Committee indicated today

Republican members of the Schate Finance Committee indicated today that they would seek to give priority to the soldier bonus bill over the revenue measure.

Senator Watson of Indians, a Republican member of the committee, said such a move probably would be made this week and Chairman Smoot has said he believed it would be acted upon favorably. Both pointed out that it would be necessary for the sommittee to know what expenses the government would have to bear before deciding on the rate schedules of the revenue bill.

While Democrats have taken no stand on the matter, no opposition has been voiced to the proposal to give the bonus measure priority. Chairman Smoot, who yesterday introduced a proposed amendment to the bonus bill as passed by the House, providing for life insurance policies payable only at death instead of twenty-year endowment policies today asked for estimates on policies today asked for estimates on policies of slightly lower value than he at first suggested.

Mr. Gould's lawyer insisted that Frank never wished to abandon America, citing the fact that the millionaire evaded paying French taxes on the ground that he paid a United States income tax, and, therefore, was exempt elsewhere, He stated that Mr. Gould lives in France solely because he needs France solely because he needs special treatment for an illness by French specialists, and because he desires to train his racchorses.

IN SAN FRANCISCO

It is generally accepted that the salmon pack in 1924 may greatly exceed that of 1923. Still, stocks will probably be cleared before new supplies are ready for shipment, July or August. The future situation is thus given a background of strength. There has been a wider export movement within the last few weeks and a more general interest in pinks, medium reds and reds, all of which are held firmly. The demand for California sardines is improved. Maine sardines continue to sell in a fair way, despite the variation in prices. Tuna is in broader call. Lobsters and crab meat are unchanged and weak.

BUTTER

The butter market showed weakness at the opening. Several sellers jumped in early and sold extra creamery down to 47 ½ cents. About twenty lots were taken at that price, and later on store trade was about on the same basis. There seems to be general willingness on the part of all interests to work the market down to a lower level of values in view of the near approach of the storage season.

ortunate is the last sew years in hat it has not had to go through he depression seen in other States and it is consequently in a strong condition today. Dairying is the chief industry of the State and that has yielded the farmer a steady income that put him on a straight income which grain farmers cannot cell do, because they get their returns in one lump. A part of the Wisconsin farmer's income each month goes into savings and it does not often come out. As a result, deposits are climbing steadily higher in practically all Wisconsin banks and they have been moving upward for more than two years.

is good and for that reason I believe there will be continued prosperity in Ohio throughout this year.

"The tire industry around Akron has been rather hard hit and not working full time, but that is passing, and even they are picking up considerably. The banks of the State have shown steady gains in deposits, with savings are thrifty and the banks are driving harder for business, so that most of the surplus earnings are

"There is some buying of luxuries, of course. Ohio has nearly 1,000.000 automobiles, but the purchase of these has not been at the expense of savings. There are more people saving money than are throwing it away, so that the balance is in favor of thrift."

PERTINENT INVESMENT SUGGESTION

movement in goods Contracting in the West and possibility of a reexport movement of foreign wools in bond are centers of interest. Noils are in good demand, but the scarcity of supply has lessened the activity of previous weeks with no change in prices.

A decline in activity in contracting for Western clips is noted, and dealers are exercising considerable caution, now that the first rush of the movement is over. There is an evident desire among eastern houses to keep the contract prices within the indicated range of 38 to 42 cents, so that unforeseen conditions will not catch them with high-priced stock on their hands, as it did last year. Statistically, the future is strong, but dealers are giancing at a similar situation in cotton for a guide to possibilities in a short crop and light demand from goods manufacturers. Shortage of wool abroad, with a fairly active demand, has begun to attract imports held here in bond. With prices up 10 to 15 per cent in London since December, it is to be expected that some of the consignments will be ordered returned for resale. No definite indication that the movement has reached the local market is reported, though some noils have been resold before leaving the other side.

Have you investigated the Pacific Diesel Company's offer? It will pay you to do so without delay. Get the facts-then judge for yourself.

$250,000 of these shares at the par value of $10 per share have already been snapped up by shrewd investors. The remainder of the issue is being subscribed at the rate of about $5,000 a day.

It is impossible to foretell what dividends will be paid on these shares. But it is the heart-felt belief of the keen-minded, successful men back of the Pacific Diesel Engine Company that the astounding growth of their business during the past six years will appear commonplace in the light of future developments. In other words, these Diesel engineers foresee, and do sincerely hope and believe, that the money you intrust to them for the manufacture of Diesel Engines, will net you tremendous and ever-increasing annual profits for the rest of your life.

OADS AGREE TO ACCEPT NEUSTADT'S PERMIT IN DEPOT FIGHT

Franchise Demand of S. P.-U. P. Is Withdrawn; Promise to Abide by Court Ruling Refused

The Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railways yester day agreed to withdraw their request for a twenty-one-year chise for East Side rerouting of freight trains, and offered to accept a revocable permit, so as not to interfere with the union passenger station project. But this proved not to be sufficient for at least one member of the Railroad Commission, who demanded that the railroads agree as a stipulation that they will abide by the decision of the Supreme Court in regard to the union station project.

This definitely defeated the raillation be "positive and not negative" and that the railroads agree is to go to the city Council into giving a long-cides the California Railroad Commission. time franchise that might jeopardise the Plaza union station project, in a sort of franchise fire sale based on the recent blaze at the old Sait Lake passenger station.

the Union Pacific.

The conference was held to discuss the railroads' renewed application for a twenty-one-year franchise for certain track changes construction of a $200,000 bridge over the Arroyo Seco and the joint use of the Southern Pacific's Arcade Station by that road and the Union Pacific. The railroads had made this request on what many considered the pretext of the fire that recently destroyed a part of the ramshackle Sait Lake station, and from the start the city officials have opposed the requested franchise on the grounds that it might militate against the city's union passenger-station project, which the Railroad Commission ordered but which the railroads appealed until it is now before the United States Supreme Court. The chief point at issue is the question of the Railroad Commission's right of jurisdiction in the matter.

BRUNDIGE TALKS

Soon after the beginning of yesterday's conference spokesmen of the railroads agreed to withdraw the request for a twenty-one-year franchise and to accept mere temporary permits, which had been suggested when the matter last came before the City Council. The roads already had proposed a stipulation in the franchise or permits by which it would not be considered as affecting the union terminal or any other plan.

The railway attorneys, E. J. Foulds for the Southern Pacific and A. S. Haisted for the Union Pacific, seemed to consider this a sufficient concession until Commissioner Brundige said:

"The carriers have refused to accept any porary permits, which had been suggested when the matter last came before the City Council. The roads already had proposed a stipulation in the franchise or permits by which it would not be considered as affecting the union terminal or any other plan.

He defended the Los Angeles lease on the grounds that it was an asset to the community.

Angeles lease on the grounds that it was an asset to the community. The statement in full follows:

What took place before the grand jury this morning, of course, is a matter that cannot be made public; however, I am free to make this statement which bears upon the reason for the Pan-American Petroleum Company desiring to procure for itself terminal facilities at Los Angeles Harbor. The necessity for such terminal facilities grew out of a great enterprise which I had, as chairman of the board of the Pan-American Petroleum Company, inaugurated for that company—that of connecting up its oil properties in the San Joaquin Valley with a seaport on the Pacific, from which we might supply petroleum products to Navy vessels under the terms of our contract with the United States government.

There is little question that public opinion in this country, excepting the political bosses and their retainers, is almost unanimous in favor of keeping the judiciary out of partisan politics. But no State has successfully selved the problem of how this shall be done. Some are sincerely of the opinion that the judges should be appointed by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the State Senate. Others are equally sincere in the belief that the present elective system is preferable.

Both systems have been tried and neither has achieved more than partial success. In the early years of the republic the judges were appointed in many States; and the framers of the Constitution provided for the appointment of Federal judges.

Gradually the impression grew among the States that too much favoritism was shown in the selection of judges, that they received their positions as rewards for successful efforts in partisan politics, that they were too far removed from the people. So the elective system was proposed as a reform. Its proponents claimed that it would take the judiciary out of politics.

For half a century judges in nearly all

For half a century judges in nearly all the States have been elected by the people; and the opinion is growing that the result of this system is to elevate to the bench adroit politicians in place of the members of the bar best qualified to administer impartial justice. Some compare our judiciary to that of Great Britain and hold that the appointive system in effect in England and Scotland brings better results than the elective system in the United States.

But, while there is a general desire to keep the judiciary out of politics, there is no unanimity of opinion concerning the process of selection most likely to bring this about. The country is growing wary of experimental reforms. Too many of them make unsatisfactory conditions still worse; the remedies are too often more deadly than the disease.

State judges in New Jersey are appointed and it is not contended that the judiciary of that State is of a higher caliber than in the majority of the States where the judges are elected. Experience has proved that only an awakened public conscience will prevent political debauchery of the judiciary. The best of systems can produce the worst results. The test comes in the application. So long as Tammany Hall dominates the elections of New York the judiciary will be subservient to Tammany.

With four of the eight new boliers which are to replace the liner's old boilers already installed, Martignoni explained that two of the remaining four poliers had arrived from the East, while the last two boilers are to arrive today. The fuel-oil, ballast-blige systems, and blige, sanitary and lubricating-oil cooler pumps have been installed, as also have the three main electric generators.

"Another thing that interested me was that this linoleum was not tacked down. Instead it seemed to be cemented, and I literally had to search to find where the seams were joined. The edges disappeared under the moulding round the walls.

"I thought that a linoleum floor in a bedroom would be cold—these floors weren't; and, besides, they were soft and quiet to step on. But my real discovery came when I cleaned those rooms.

"Why, it was the easiest thing in the world! What dust there was lay on the surface, and brushed right up. They were simply no trouble at all to keep clean.

"There is something else I specially liked about those floors. They had been waxed, and this had given them a lovely mellow tone. There was no guessing their age—they might have been down six months instead of six CIRCLE W

Child in Sad Farewell from "Mamma" He Adores

The law and mother love met I a courtroom battle yesterday and mother love lost. The decision went to the law when Judge Archbald of the Juvenile Court awarded the custody of 6-year-old Malcolm Schrader to his father. Martin E. Schrader, of Oakland.

The court battle developed when Schrader sued out a write of ha-beas corpus for the custody of his on. The writ was directed at W. H. Waite, a hotel operator, and his wife, Madge Waite.

It was brought out that Malcolm's mother died while he was an infant and that his tather furned him over to Mr. and Mrs. Watte, steently Schrader remarried and he went to Mrs. Watte, seeking to recover his son. In the intervening years that Malcolm lived with Mrs. Waite there had sprung up 3 mother-and-son attachment between the two.

Schrader, however, offered legal proof that the child was his.

"This is, perhaps, the most difficult thing I ever had to do," remarked Judge Archbald in ordering the child returned to his father.

Personality

Many people assume that personality is a fixed thing—like a prominent chin or red hair.

The common view is somewhat like this: "If you have a strong personality, you are lucky. If not, you have a justifiable kick against fate. But the kick won't do you any good. You are what you are—and that's that."

There is no costlier or more tragic mistake.

GREAT TRAINER of men andwomen A for administrative positions has been analyzing this mysterious force called personality.

He has robbed it of mystery; he has even put down its twenty most important elements on a chart.

By this chart he has tested thousands of people and has proved that they are weak, and can strengthen

The results are thrilling.

The chart is on page 11 of The American Magazine for April, on sale now. You can use it. Perhaps you will gain from it a clear idea of how you look to other people—and how you can make your abilities

You and I came into the world with minds to which everything was a mystery. We advance only as fast and as far as we acquire knowledge of forces that once were mysterious or uncontrollable.

Month after month, The American Magazine contributes to this knowledge. This is why two million, one hundred thousand people buy it and use it. It is a gateway to self-expression— And self-expression is LIFE.

William Farnum is all set to go, with Wallace Worsley directing, on his first story, a modern drama. And I hear it hasn't one thing about a "red-blooded man" or "the great open spaces," either. In fact, there isn't a single open space in the whole story.

William De Mille is going in for sex appeal in his pictures now, too, apparently. At least so far as titles are concerned. He has renamed his newest story "The Bedroom Window!" It was formerly "The Inside Story," and is by Clara Beranger. Mr. De Mille began work on the picture yesterday, with May McAvoy and Malcolm MacGregor in the leading roles, while the cast includes Ethel Wales. Robert Edeson, Ricardo Cortez, George Fawcett, Guy Ollver, Charles Ogle, Medea Radzina, George Calliga and Mattle Peters. It is all set, according to unofficial report, that Glen Hunter, who is shortly to start work on a film version of "Merton of the Movies," will at the end of his picture engagement return to the stage in "Merton," working east from Los Angeles in the play.

And May McAvoy, no less, will be kidnaped by Hunter, according to the same report, to play opposite him on the stage.

Joseph Henabery has begun his direction of "The Guilty One," from the stage play by Michael Morton and Peter Traill, written for the screen by Anthony Coldewey. Agnes Ayers is featured, yesterday Henabery delivered himself of a wise crack during the making of the big cafe scene.

Deputy sheriffs were guarding all roads leading into Los Angeles last night and posses were scouring the district about Santa Fe Springs in an effort to overtake the desperadoes. At a late hour, however, no trace of the bandits had been found.

In the meantime fee second bandit, a slim pale-faced young. man, had made his way behind the cage and was scooping up all the money in sight. The four persons in the bank were lined up with their faces to a wall and told to keep their hands above their heads. The bandits went through all the drawers in the filing case and then the shorter desperado ordered Sponheim to go to the front of the bank and open the safe. The bandit opened all the compartments in the safe, taking the money they contained. Then he ordered his companion to go outside and warm up the engine of the car. He remained in the bank until the engine was started and running and at a signal from his companion backed slowly out and climbed in beside him. The car drove away toward Whittier Boulevard.

TRAIL LOST

Phelps and Edgerley gave chase in their automobile, pursuing the bandits for about a half-mile and then lost them. Deputy Sheriffs Marty and Cross hurried to Los Nietos immediately after the report of the robbery came to the Sheriffa office.

A detailed description of the desperadoes was given the deputies. The first was described as about 23 years-of age, five feet, four inches tall, 135 to 140 pounds in weight with brown hair and a scar on the left side of his mouth. He spoke with a Texas drawl and wore a black cap and dark suit. The second bandit was described as about 25 years of age, five feet, nine inches in height and weighing about 130 pounds. The officers broke into the house and found it empty. A few empty packing boxes and a few scraps of writing, however, gave them clews that led them to Arizona. A patrol was placed on the high-or several weeks ance search of every hiding-place along the road to Mexico was made.

Reports of a suspicious caravan were made to the Sheriff at Yuma He gave the information to Heller and Johnson and found it dove tailed with their own information. Posses dispatched from Yum followed the caravan south toward the border.

A mistake made by the deputies in taking the wrong crossroads resulted in the main part of the artillery train going free, probably over the border. One ruck, found near the border at Agua Prieta, had been left where it had over-turned. Near it were found a few scattered cases of ammunition and a stack of fifty-two guns, hidden beneath a brushpile.

TWO RAPID HOLD-UPS "GENTLEMEN" DO NOT WORK The Malays are known as the pally for the reason that as they do no work that they can possibly avoid, they are always clean and present a pleasing appearance. For generations they have trained monkeys to climb the ecocanut trees and bring down the fruit. The Malay native could walk right up a cocoanut tree if he wanted to and he does when occasion requires it but this is very rare for every family has its tree-climbing monkey. The animal is sent up the tree and when it approaches the fruit the owner calls to him indicating whether he wants a yellow cocoanut or a green one, where upon the animal proceeds to twist the fruit loose from the true and it falls to the ground. The faithful monk then returns to the arms of his master. The natives live very largely upon this fruit and the green ones are used for the milk as a drink and the yellow ones are used in the shape of a curry.

TRAFFIC CRUSH

Scouts Show 62,000 Autos Avoid Rush Hour

by Traffic Experts

Former Estimates Shown to be Conservative

Partial explanation of the comparative absence of congestion in outbound traffic between 4:30 and 6:30 o'clock in the afternoon is contained in the fact that one out of every five automobiles which enter the business district between 7.a.m. and 6:30 p.m. remains in the district until after the crush hours. This condition is revealed in a preliminary analysis of the figures obtained in the Boy Scout traffic check of February 14 last, now in the process of translation by the Traffic Commission into pertinent traffic facts.

Based on the recent and thorough check by the Los Angeles Railway Company of automobile are eliminated from traffic between 4:30 and 6:30 o'clock, according to Clarence R. Snethen of the Traffic Commission.

WAS UNEXPLAINED

"Until the check of the Boy Scouts under supervision of the Traffic Commission revealed the condition, the comparative absence of congestion during the crush hour was unexplained." Also Sank Stores In Store Fage.

BOY FREED

"Until the check of the Boy Scouts under supervision of the Traffic Commission revealed the condition, the comparative absence of congestion during the crush hour was unexplained," declared Mr. Snethen. "It is fortunate for traffic conditions that one out of every five cars remains in the downtown district to make its way out later, as the injection of 62,000 additional cars into the crush traffic would seriously complicate the problem facing us."

It has already been ascertained from the skeleton figures that all estimates previous to the systematic check were conservative and that extensive improvement as to arterials and the manner of handling traffic must be undertaken at once. San Fernando Road, one of the narrowest arteries in the city, was checked at 26,740 cars at the junction with Pasadena avenue. This figure is far above estimates, and similar conditions obtain at a number of other points of importance to the handling of traffic.
